This was the provision of the Panama bill which was supposed to let all ship-

The reconsideration of the law is understood to interpret it in such a way that machinery completely assembled or complete and ready for assembling will not be admitted free of duty. The only machinery that will come in duty free will be such as can be got in the open markets abroad. No machinery specially designed will escape the tariff. The same is true of auxiliary machinery.

same is true of auxiliary machinery.

Inasmuch as the machinery constitutes 80 or 90 per cent. of the cost of building it is apparent that the free trade feature of the Panama Canal bill will not be very effective.

Efforts to Get Verdict in Suit for Child's Death Censured.

The Standard Oil Company was critcised yesterday in an opinion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Cour in a suit for the death of a child who was killed by one of the company's automobiles in charge of a city salesman. As a result of the decision Standard Oil must pay a judgment of $3,500

The suit was brought by Isidore Frascone against William Beekman Louderback and the Standard Oil Company, by which Louderback was employed, because the plaintiff's five-year-old daughter, Antoinette, was killed in The Bronx on July 17, 1909. Louderback denied that he was negligent, while the company denied that he at any time operated an automobile in the discharge of his duty

The case was tried before Justice Brady and counsel for the oil company asked the Judge to charge that the jury might find a verdict for both defendants or for one defendant or for the plaintiff.

Justice Brady so charged, and the jury brought in a verdict against the company alone.

Justice Brady subsequently decided to grant a new trial on condition that the Standard Oil Company pay the costs of the first trial, but if it failed to do so the first verdict should stand. The company refused to pay the costs, about $100, and appealed from Justice Brady's ruling and from the judgment. Justice Clarke, writing

Division opinion, said that the situation in which the Standard Oil Company finds itself is entirely of its own making, be-cause the request made by its counsel for a charge to the jury was misleading and
